ATTENTION: You know how I feel about supporting the military, and since the American Government is doing a horrible job of it, the good people of the world have to step up and help. The Eagles' Nest: <https://eaglesnest.org/> is an excellent organization that gives military personnel the care they deserve for putting their lives on the line, day in and day out. Just like with our friend, Ed, I am willing to match all donations from The Titanium Community. Even if it's just one dollar, every dollar helps, especially during The Season of Giving. Thanks, Michael

Quick informations what TBIS Inc.
 Join our Pre-ico Sale and get extra coins!

<https://tbis.io/>

Titanium Blockchain INFRASTRUCTURE SERVICES

Titanium targets the massive market of cloud services currently under the monopoly of Amazon, Microsoft and Google. Titanium aims to disrupt the market via blockchain technology and its benefits are:

- Titanium can offer it's services at 50% lower cost compared to competitors operating outside the blockchain
- Titanium's team has 200 years of combined relevant background and know the industry
- Developers have extensive blockchain experience
- The CEO, Michael Stollarsky has extensive experience and network to clients
- Clients will be inherited from peer company EKS, including the likes of Apple, eBay, McDonalds, PayPal, Universal, IBM, SAP, Pfizer and many more

Investors will receive BARs. That's the confusion that clients will use as a argument for Titanium's services, hence a right central ICO

The first blockchain team set to ever acquire both Enter Business Services (EBS) and Data and Streamline (D&S) accreditation.

Titanium accelerated a company's adoption in order to achieve a more secure and efficient service at half the cost of its competition.

Max Minskoff What are partnerships if there is no working product? No working custom blockchain? Half the dev team was let go. Trying to stay optimistic but there has not been one announcement that these services even work. Not FUDing, just a concerned investor thats down 60% since the ICO.... I work in enterprise IT and have a prospective clients that could benefit from these services, but there is nothing to work with yet or test.... lets have a real announcement!

Kuldeep Singh Nobody has received TBAR from HitBTC. I'm really sick n tired of HitBTC now. Never thought they will be this awful.

They didn't even provide an update on this issue and have kept quiet since forever.

Their ADA wallet has been in maintenance for months now and their ETN listing promise is also overdue by months.

Supposedly inferior exchanges like FatBTC and Cobinhood have not only distributed but started trading TBAR long back.

TBIS team, you cannot just brush your hands off like that. People are losing more and more faith in you as days pass

Dear Community,
Titanium will initiate a process to distribute TBAR to HitBTC BAR token holders. The HitBTC team confirmed last week that they will be providing TBIS with necessary wallet information for TBAR distribution to those who held BAR Token on HitBTC's exchange at the time of our snapshot Feb. 21st. This communication was encouraging, and we hope very much that HitBTC was sincere. Should we not receive necessary information promised by HitBTC by Wednesday, April 4th, we will implement an alternative plan for HitBTC. This process will be time consuming for TBIS and inconvenient for BAR token holders, however Titanium is poised to devote team resources exclusively to HitBTC wallet verification and TBAR distribution until complete. We hope very much that HitBTC will deliver as promised and apologize on their behalf should they choose not to do so.

Like Reply 6w 1

Wayne Ellis TBIS Inc. Thank u for a company reply much appreciated. But just asking for a change from bar to tbar would that not mean the value of the new tbar would end up the value of the old bar. Sorry if this is a newbie question I would of assumed it would of been a new listing not just being switched over?

Like Reply 6w 2

David Aimi Wayne Ellis it would be an entirely new listing and trade entirely separately from BAR. The two have no connection whatsoever. The price of either has nothing to do with either at this point. It'd would likely new an entirely new listing .

Like Reply 6w

Wayne Ellis That would of been my thinking but that's not how the company reply read David Aimi

TBAR Token update:

TIDEX worked closely with TBIS had informed us they needed to start trading immediately. TBIS had requested delays on trading and understand that users are eager be able to get TBAR. Cobinhood trading to begin on the 13th. IDEX and HitBTC timing is still TBD we are working diligently to make sure this happens ASAP.

I was just wondering when we will see Tbar on more exchanges? Preferbly the bigger ones such as binance.

Atm i can only see Tbars being traded on Tidex atleast according to my CMC App.

Good time to buy in?

Hello everyone. I have been watching Titanium for a while and its an absolutely awesome project. I currently holding a few smaller coins and have a bit of fiat, however I am currently not holding any Titanium.

Seeing the recent gains has got me worried I may miss out on a cheaper price, so do you guys reckon I invest now, or wait later and let my other coins grow first then invest?

What is causing TBAR to be doing so well currently?

CoinMarketCap is saying it's up 59.55% in the last 24 hours, yet I can't find any news to corroborate that. All news says it is trading down 1% against the Dollar. This is confusing, can someone explain it a bit better to me please?

What happens with my BAR?

Hi my fellow crypto lovers,

I just came back from vacation. During my vacation, I saw that Titanium was having a hard fork. My heart sank. I couldn't access my BARs, since my hardware wallet was at home.

Due to lack of response from HitBTC, Titanium will implement an independent TBAR distribution process on April 5 (12pm PST), with full team resources available for immediate support. We are disappointed with this outcome and apologize on behalf of @HitBTC.

3/31/2018 HitBtc announcement

Dear Community, Titanium will initiate a process to distribute TBAR to HitBTC BAR token holders. The HitBTC team confirmed last week that they will be providing TBIS with necessary wallet information for TBAR distribution to those who held BAR Token on HitBTC's exchange at the time of our snapshot Feb. 21st. This communication was encouraging, and we hope very much that HitBTC was sincere. Should we not receive necessary information promised by HitBTC by Wednesday, April 4th, we will implement an alternative plan for HitBTC. This process will be time consuming for TBIS and inconvenient for BAR token holders, however Titanium

4. The laas is what caught my attention , setting up a large network is extremely expensive and the fact you will be able to make one with software from a table is mind blowing. Think about the millions spent on this and imagine if you told google or Apple you could reduce there network cost by 90% how fast they would jump on board. Instead of buying servers ,firewalls , routers hubs and switches. you just get this software and save 90% not to mention the cost of electricity , maintance , personal and downtime. Prices are gonna be big , small supply so In 3 years 100.00+ is what I think

I'm personally expecting 2018 to be slower than 2019-2020. The masternode system and actual product launch will great improve this coin in every way. The general consensus in Telegram is 6-12 dollars a TBAR in 2018. 2019 will have 5x-10x potential if they pull it off. Keep in mind these are very conservative targets. Masternode payouts will also improve as we go up as well; something to keep in mind.

How does Titanium use blockchain for its IaaS? Does it?
 Posted by w/htsbule 2 months ago

I read the whitepaper and found no details on exactly how this service requires blockchain at all. No technical explanation. The payment of said service would be in BARS, which I understand, but how is blockchain being used? I am a technical person and I think it's a fantastic concept, but I need to understand the how not just that something is a cool concept.

Thank you for being so quick to respond! I work in the cloud computing sector (Salesforce) and I enjoy the work, but see so much opportunity for a blockchain service like Titanium. Incredibly excited to learn more about the process behind how Titanium will be taking on AWS, Azure and others.

Great news Michael! Hope to hear more about master nodes soon as well.

As an investor, you have to love that the CEO is responding to community questions and is all about transparency and communication. Excited to see the MVP.

A more detailed White Paper, Version 3.0, is being worked on. I have put the brakes on that, as I want all hands laser-focused on getting our IaaS MVP out before March 1. AFTER our MVP is out, I can divert resources to completion of the more detailed White Paper.

I am beginning to worry about this project or company. Where are the deals with major companies that was supposed to be announced? While the market as a whole went up, BARs were down. Looks like others are doubting too. I will give it several more months but so far, very disappointing. All I hear are the same vague promises in interviews

 ↓ You've got to be kidding. The ICO was completed just a few weeks ago. You must be a kid that's never invested before. It can take years for a company to fully develop and deploy a complex software product. The Titanium team hasn't even moved into their offices yet and you're expecting them to announce 'deals'. Give me a break. Do us all a favor and just sell your Bars now so we don't have to listen to little inexperienced kids like you complaining. This is a longterm project that will take several years to get fully up and running. By 2020 or 2021 we will know if their roadmap is realized or not. The 'deals' will happen when the Titanium product is fully functional which won't be for a couple of years minimum. And you're complaining after a few weeks? The company is still in the earliest stages and still hiring core programming talent. You obviously are new to the startup world. (rolls eyes)

Theyve got a really interesting fast feeless system it might be interesting to see if you guys could partner. Or at the very least Im sure TBIS could learn something from them if we create or own blockchain

 ↓ I have to agree with MistaBlue - I work in the data network industry. The next generation of data networking is SDN not blockchain, blockchains still need routers and switches to interconnect. Im interested to see how TBIS can transition infra onto the blockchain where I would argue that its infrastructure that underpins the blockchain.

Soon other dedicated volunteers joined, a board was formed, funds were raised and that first flight took to the air in May of 2005. Six small planes flew 12 very happy veterans out to Manassas, Virginia, just outside of Washington, D.C. Vans then transported the pilots and veterans into D.C. and to the World War II Memorial. The responses from both the veterans and the pilots were overwhelming. It was an experience that will remain with them for the rest of their lives. Soon other flights were planned and made. So many veterans wanted to participate that commercial aircraft were used to accommodate forty veterans at a time, including many in wheelchairs. By the end of the first year, Honor Flight had transported 137 World War II veterans to their memorial.

"I want to put a ding in the universe." - Steve Jobs
September 8, 2016. Michael worked with Thomas in the same group

Michael is one of the top notch executive and architect genius. He brings to the table the knowledge, expertise and background that easily blends into your environment. He is a pleasure to work and is an excellent team member. I highly recommend him.

Mark Conty
Senior Software Quality Engineer at Dell EMC

January 10, 2015. Michael worked with Mark in the same group

Besides Michael's engergetic and enthusiastic approach to the work that was asked of him, I found him to be a pleasure to interact with. He brought with him a lot of knowledge in other areas, and a willingness to share that knowledge and accept work in aspects of the Enterprise Systems Monitoring Services offerings that were outside of the original focus on HP OpenView for which he was hired.

I continue to interact with him personally, from time to time, even though my responsibilities at Cargill ended a number of months ago.

Scott Dominguez
President - IT Consultant at Virtualitpr.com, Inc.

December 9, 2014. Michael worked with Scott in the same group

I worked with Michael during our HPNA and NNMi deployments and he was a valuable asset to our team. He had a way solve complex technical issues making them look easier than they really were. I would recommend Michael as a network monitoring subject matter expert as dominated these tools without a doubt.

Paul Costanza

Capacity Planner at Hewlett-Packard

March 15, 2014. Paul worked with Michael in different groups

Michael is a dedicated, detail-oriented technical individual motivated to meet the objectives of a project and/or task. Michael is able to identify and implement technical business requirements.

Eran Jenkins

Blockchain Consultant at Blockchain Infrastructure Services Inc.

January 22, 2014. Eran worked with Michael in different groups

Michael is one of those rare talents that can lead a project and implement new technologies in an elaborate environment. Working with him is always a pleasure and he is consistently professional and incredibly competent.

Sadagopan (Gopi) Gopinath

IT Engineer/Developer at Hewlett Packard

June 1, 2013. Michael worked with Sadagopan (Gopi) in the same group

I worked with Mike Stollaire on a major project to upgrade BSM to version 9.21. Mike took the lead role in designing, developing, implementing, and testing BSM System Health application meeting the business requirements. He was always calm and completed his tasks on time. He is very helpful and works as a team with other colleagues. I strongly recommend him for any lead positions

David Segura
Network Monitoring Engineer at Bank of America

May 9, 2013. Michael was senior to David but didn't manage directly

I have had several opportunities to work with Michael before. He is one of the most knowledgeable and overall "Pro" people I've worked with in NNMi and NPS. He definitely knows what he is doing!
